Crash sends two to hospital

by CHAD INGRAM
Times Staff

A 64-year-old Minden Hills man and a 29-year-old East Gwillimbury woman are in hospital in Toronto with serious injuries after a collision on Deep Bay Road Sunday, May 29.

According to Haliburton Highlands OPP, the two were northbound on Deep Bay Road when the Corvette they were travelling in crossed the centre line, entering the west ditch. The vehicle rolled, ultimately ending up on a private property.

The police, county EMS and the Minden Hills fire department responded to the call just after 2 p.m.

The occupants of the car were airlifted to hospital in Toronto, both with serious injuries.

The investigation is ongoing.

Boshkung Brewing buys old Beer Store

by CHAD INGRAM
Times Staff

While the Minden Beer Store will be relocating to Highway 35 in coming weeks after 35 years along Water Street, the Water Street property will remain dedicated to the hoppy beverage.

Boshkung Brewing Co. has purchased the old Beer Store building, the deal set to close mid-July.

"Originally, we thought we'd build a bigger brewery where we are," says owner Terri Mathews-Carl. "We can't expand at the spot we're at. We don't have the space."

Boshkung Brewing Co. is located in the lower level of Carnarvon's Rhubarb restaurant, which Mathews-Carl owns along with her husband, chef Christoph Carl. Since opening two years ago, the brewery has experienced tremendous success, winning numerous awards and served at venues in Haliburton, Lindsay, Bobcaygeon, Peterborough, Bracebridge, Gravenhurst and Toronto, including the CN Tower restaurant.

"The Beer Store came up in Minden and it has everything we need," Mathews-Carl says, explaining this includes space for production, cold storage and office space. The 3,000-square-foot building will also feature a retail area and tasting room. It's hoped the Minden site will be operational this summer.

"Next summer we will add a food component as well," Mathews-Carl says. "Our hope is to add to downtown Minden."

Council pleased with new disaster relief assistance programs

by CHAD INGRAM
Times Staff

The Ontario government has replaced what was the Ontario Disaster Relief Assistance Program with two new programs.

“These programs are meant to be a streamlined version of the former ODRAP,” Petr Sizov, a municipal advisor with the Ministry of Municipal Affairs and Housing, told Minden Hills councillors during a presentation at a May 26 meeting.

Rolled out by the province in March, the Disaster Recovery Assistance for Ontario program is for individuals who experience property damage as a result of a natural disaster, while the Municipal Disaster Recovery Assistance program is to reimburse municipalities for eligible emergency response and repair costs.

A major change is that the new programs eliminate the need for local fundraising. Under ODRAP, communities affected by a natural disaster were made to fundraise for themselves, with the province matching raised monies up to a ratio of two-to-one. It was the only province that required disaster-stricken communities to do so.

After the Minden flood of 2013, the community raised $780,000 towards what ended up being $1.6 million in eligible ODRAP claims.

“Certainly, the new program, removing local fundraising from it, is a welcome change,” said Reeve Brent Devolin.

The new programs also remove the need for the creation of disaster relief committees, bodies appointed by local councils that were responsible for the organizing of fundraising efforts, as well as reviewing applications and processing payments.

Under the new program, payments will be made to individuals by the government, directly.

The municipal program is based on a municipal-provincial cost sharing formula. In order to qualify for assistance, costs incurred by a municipal government must be equal to or greater than three per cent of its own-purpose taxation levy. For the first three per cent of the levy value, the province will fund 75 per cent of cost, the remaining 25 per cent falling to the municipality. For the rest of the expenses, beyond the three per cent mark, 95 per cent of those costs will be paid by the province, the remaining five per cent falling to the municipality.

“I think this is a great step forward,” Devolin said. “I think it’s clearer.”

The province considers disasters to be exceptional, sudden, infrequent events such as earthquakes or, what Sizov called, “one in 100-year floods.”

Minden has experienced a number of severe floods in the past century and Councillor Jean Anthon wondered if Minden flooded again in, say, 20 years for example, if the province would leave the community on its own.

“The extent of the damage would be assessed by the ministry,” Sizov said. “Just to emphasize, this isn’t set in stone.”

County drafts complaint on OPP billing

by CHAD INGRAM
Times Staff

"Please consider this our official complaint with respect to the billing formula for allocating costs to municipalities for policing services delivered by the Ontario Provincial Police, and our formal request that your office undertake an investigation into its fairness," reads the submission the County of Haliburton will send to the office of the Ombudsman of Ontario.

County councillors decided earlier this spring to lodge a complaint about the province's new OPP billing formula with the Ombudsman. Coming into effect in 2015, the formula, phased in during a five-year period, redistributed OPP costs on a per-household basis throughout the province. Under the formula, seasonal residences are weighted equally with year-round ones, which the county government has contended repeatedly is unfair and a central flaw of the formula.

It means that cottage communities like the townships of Haliburton County are hardest hit. The county's collective OPP bill will double from about $3 million to about $6 million during the phase-in.

Councillors reviewed the draft submission at a May 25 meeting.

Simply put, household numbers do not drive crime. Population, demographics and municipal characteristics are the factors that affect policing costs.

— COUNTY SUBMISSION ON OPP BILLING

"At the root of our concern with the new formula is the fact that base costs are allocated on a 'per household' basis that includes residential units, farmlands on which a farm residence exists, and seasonal dwelling units," the submission reads. "In addition, the formula takes into account fully occupied commercial and industrial business properties. We believe the calculation of households is systemically unfair for a number of reasons.

"First, the calculation does not take into account that seasonal households are counted in the same manner as a home that is occupied on a year round basis. Our seasonal residences are only occupied five months of the year, and many are not even accessible during the winter months. This problem is compounded with waterfront properties which have much higher market value assessments and consequently pay a proportionately higher share for a service that they do not access for much of the year. This is inconsistent with the approach taken with respect to commercial and industrial properties where only those properties that are fully occupied are counted. Even a commercial property with an attached residential unit is considered to be two units even if there are multiple commercial tenants.

"Secondly, as noted above, a fully occupied industrial or commercial property having multiple tenants (stores) is counted as only one unit. These properties may have multiple tenants (eg. a strip mall) that could house businesses that generate significant demand for policing services. This also results in communities like ours, who have a small commercial and industrial base, potentially (and unfairly) subsidizing other communities. Those other communities would benefit from an artificially low base cost calculation even though a higher level of policing infrastructure (officers, cruisers, etc.) would be required to provide adequate coverage."

A third concern listed in the submission is that the per household model incorrectly assumes that equal services are delivered in each of the municipalities.

Quoting a 2012 report from the auditor general, it reads, "officers face significantly different workloads depending on where they are assigned, with some officers handling 54 per cent to 137 per cent more calls than officers in other detachments."

"Simply put, household numbers do not drive crime," the submission reads. "Population, demographics and municipal characteristics are the factors that affect policing costs."

In the headlights

EARLIER THIS YEAR I was driving along Highway 118, westbound, between West Guilford and Carnarvon.

It was an overcast winter day, just starting to lilt into twilight.

For several kilometres, I'd been following a low-riding Jetta.

Our little caravan passed up over a rise and suddenly a brownish object that resembled a large sack of flour or potatoes flew up from the front of the Jetta's passenger side, several feet into the air.

By the time it hit the ground on the shoulder, my brain had processed that it of course wasn't a sack of flour or potatoes, but a deer.

The driver of the Jetta slammed the brakes. I slammed mine.

The young couple inside the car was shaken but uninjured.

The same couldn't be said for the car.

Or the animal.

I watched with some degree of horror as the panicked deer, one of its hind legs clearly broken, painstaking dragged itself off the roadway and into the woods, presumably to its fate.

I hoped hypothermia would find it before a pack of coyotes.

Haliburton County ranks No. 2 among Ontario communities for the highest number of animal-vehicle collisions reported to police, sometimes more than 200 a year.

And those are just the ones that are reported. Most of them involve deer.

The Ministry of Natural Resources and Forestry is collaborating with the OPP and the MTO on a campaign designed to reduce the number of deer-vehicle collisions.

A key component of that campaign is public education.

It is dangerous to feed deer. That cannot be stressed enough. To get very scientific about it . . . it throws everything out of whack.

Feeding deer draws the creatures out of natural wintering grounds and into areas of human habitation where they normally would not roam. It desensitizes them to humans, making them unafraid of us. It also spreads disease, with members of a herd all eating seed off the same patch of ground.

Despite ministry warnings not to feed deer, numerous county residents still do it. It's not difficult to spot the deer-feeding residences. While these residents believe they are helping Bambi and his buddies through the scarcity of another long, dark Haliburton winter, they are actually doing the exact opposite, creating danger for the animals and for motorists.

Some have snickered online about the campaign and yes, it's true that because Haliburton County has a large deer population, there is a certain chance of residents hitting them with their cars; a much greater chance than getting kicked in the head by a kangaroo or stampeded by an elephant, say.

However, logic would dictate that if fewer residents fed deer, there would be fewer of them on the road.

"WHICH ONE OF YOU IS MY MOM?!"

Tongue in cheek

FOR THOSE WHO have never heard of Kickstarter, allow me to explain. It is a website where people with new, innovative projects go in order to present them to the public and ask for funding. Some great innovations have been born on that site – and then there are others that might not be so great, but at least they give you an indication of how far humanity has fallen.

The Licki Brush is one such project.

Basically, it is a mouth piece with a large silicon tongue attached. And, sadly, it has nothing to do with making stamp use easier either.

Don't get too excited though, the purpose of this thing is to allow a person to lick their cat – because licking your cat with your bare tongue would be weird.

The inventor says that by grooming your pet with his product you will be able to bond better with your cat. His tag line is "Have you ever wanted to lick your cat? Now you can. Without the fur balls."

Hard to resist huh?

Look, I like my cats just fine. But we have this unspoken agreement. I don't lick my cats and they don't lick me. We believe breaking that agreement crosses the line just as it would if I decided to use their litter box one day.

Apparently, 971 people do not see things that way, however, because that's how many were, at press time, supporting the development of this product. And they did so with $24,975 in cold hard cash.

Think about that for a moment. Nearly 1,000 people think this is a worthwhile idea.

The inventors suggest that by licking your cat regularly you can build a better relationship. The backers agree. Each of those people was so enamored by the idea of licking their cat that they have decided to donate, on average, nearly $26 to make this dream come true.

That has given me an idea for a Kickstarter campaign of my own. I'd like to start a clinic to counsel cats that have been licked by humans wearing silicon tongues.

I'm still working out the details but I think that these cats will need plenty of counseling, support and, above-all, a silicon tongue-free environment to process the fact that their owners thought this was a good idea.

It might take weeks of therapy, hypnosis by use of a feather on fishing line, and regulated doses of catnip to help them return to a semblance of normality.

A second part of this program will actually deal with the cat's owner – the person who thought the silicon tongue was a good idea in the first place. It might take longer to return these folks to normalcy.

Part one will be an intervention where family members – particularly the teenagers – let them know how much this hurts them. If that does not cure this issue, we'll be soaking those tongues in water and asking them to lick metal lamp posts in February. Then, at least, their cats will get a break for the winter.

There are other details to work out before I go live.

In any case, look for this Kickstarter campaign to begin right after the Licki Brush makes its commercial debut.

Nearly 1,000 people supported that campaign. If each of them has a spouse and several concerned friends, I expect my campaign to be a real success.

IN OTHER WORDS

Columns and Letters to the Editor

A forest fable

It was the beavers, those clever, industrious engineers, who had the idea: Turn house building into an industry that would create jobs and build a strong economy benefitting all forest creatures.

The industry boomed. Prefab modified beaver houses were sold to forest communities around the world. Profits flowed like the creeks in spring.

There were jobs for all. Beaver were employed as tree cutters. Moose and deer hauled sticks and mud. Foxes took charge of administration and the birds flew the marketing initiatives.

Prosperity grew throughout the forest. Every forest critter had his or her own new home and all the conveniences that make for a happy life.

Industrialization brought the financial resources to build a flourishing modern society. A council, called Parliament, was created from animals elected across the forest. There was a justice system, managed by the owls, and police services staffed by the wolves. The rabbits set up health care and other social services.

Banks, operated by the raccoons, offered mortgages for bigger houses and loans for televisions, computer tablets and to pay monthly electricity bills.

Life in the forest, once a miserable paw-to-mouth and claw-to-beak existence, was good. Until the grumbling began.

The bears complained they were working too much to enjoy their usual winter vacations. They demanded more paid hibernation time.

JIM POLING SR.
From Shaman's Rock

The nervous squirrels called for shorter work weeks to ease the stress of modern living. Still others said they must have higher wages to offset the taxes jacked up by their new government to pay for a burgeoning bureaucracy.

The forest echoed with howls and squawks about high prices and high taxes.

Wages rose steadily to quell the workers demands. So did the prices of beaver houses and other products because businesses needed more revenue to cover rising costs. The businesses also needed to satisfy the stock market lust for higher returns.

In another land far away beyond the lake, workers toiled in wet fields just to fill their bellies and did what their government ordered them to do. They learned of the industrialization success in the forest and began producing modified beaver houses and other goods at much cheaper prices.

Soon the forest animals were importing cheaper goods, and even some of their services, from the lands beyond the lake.

The forest industries could not compete with the prices from abroad. Their factories slowed production, soon gathering moss and rust. Workers were laid off and those who could not find other work spent their days playing video games and watching streamed reality shows.

Forest jobs continued to shrink as more business shifted to the lands across the lake. The only jobs available were in the fast food industry but many of the animals found they were gaining weight and becoming depressed.

Parliament decided the government should get into the casino business to create jobs. Casinos also would provide entertainment, ease the animals' worries and bring more money into the government coffers.

Depression, suicide and violent crime became common. The rabbits operating the health service began prescribing cannabis leaves, which they said would ease the forest society's pain. Costs soared beyond control, so the Parliament got into the cannabis business to raise more revenue.

It was the skunks, nosing the damp forest floor, who discovered the magic mushrooms. They learned that chewing the mushrooms relaxed the body and sent the mind off into other worlds. They created underground networks for distributing the mushrooms and sold them to stressed out buyers at secret rendezvous points.

The wolves soon ran out of spaces in which to confine loopy animals they found acting crazy or passed out along the forest trails. Their patrolling packs became exhausted trying to keep up with increasing crime.

The rabbits opened more mental health clinics and rehab centres. The costs became overwhelming so they cut back the services provided for traditional illnesses.

The forest society suffered a complete breakdown for which even the loon songs on the lake did not provide comfort or relief.

Eventually the happy loon songs stopped and the only loon call heard from the lake was the 'tremolo', that shrill and insane loon laugh signalling danger and despair.

School board welcomes new superintendent

At last week's board meeting, trustees approved the appointment of Dave Golden as a new Superintendent of Education for Trillium Lakelands District School Board. Due to the upcoming retirement of Earl Manners from the senior administration team in August, Dianna Scates will become the Superintendent of Human Resources in the next school year, leaving the vacancy for school superintendent. Golden will be based out of the Muskoka Education Centre in Bracebridge.

"We look forward to welcoming Dave as a superintendent for TLDSB," said Director of Education Larry Hope.

"Dave's professional knowledge and skills, combined with his excellent interpersonal skills and ability to forge strong relationships will make him a wonderful addition to our senior administration team."

Golden attended Bracebridge and Muskoka Lakes Secondary School (BMLSS) and then began his career in Muskoka as a supply teacher. He then spent 12 years working in the Peel region as a special education teacher, guidance counselor, program leader for alternate education, as well as a vice principal for two years. While in Peel, as part of a special education program, he named the support area the "Muskoka Room." Golden returned to Bracebridge as a vice principal at BMLSS from 2002 to 2006, and was principal at the same school until 2014 when he was appointed to District Principal of Alternative Education for the Board.

"This is a fantastic opportunity and I'm excited about meeting the needs of staff, students, families, and school communities in this new role," stated Golden. "It will be a privilege to serve in this capacity working with system leaders to ensure that all students have the support they need to be successful."

Golden's superintendent responsibilities are effective Sept. 1, but he will be invited to participate in senior team meetings for the remainder of this school year and to assist in planning for the upcoming school year.

Library lacks staff to keep up with demand

by CHAD INGRAM
Times Staff

An annual report from Haliburton County Public Library CEO Bessie Sullivan shows the library struggling to keep pace with demand for digital literacy programming.

"The growth of the Haliburton County Public Library has continued steadily over the last several years," the report reads. More and more pressure is put on the library to bridge the digital divide in the county and be the institution that ensures access to high-speed Internet for all people of the county. We understand that this role is important to the community, but we lack the staff capacity to keep up with the demand for digital literacy programming. Examples of this programming are workshops in how to set up an email account, social media efficiency, online searching including research databases, and how to use personal devices from e-readers to iPads."

Since 2008, the library's circulation has grown from about 70,000 to about 160,000 items a year. During the same period, attendance for library programming has grown from less than 2,000 people per year to some 6,000.

While a recommendation for the creation of a programming co-ordinator position has been made, "at the time there are no budgeted funds for this position so consideration was deferred."

Funding for the library's eight branches comes from the County of Haliburton.

"A programming co-ordinator would not only facilitate existing programming by providing staff support, but could also organize expanded programming to meet identified gaps in the digital literacy learning," the report reads. "Over the next few months the results in terms of how the partnerships will benefit the library and whether the grant writing has been successful will give the library a better idea of where we are unable to meet community needs."

According to the report, library staff will continue to monitor the situation on a monthly basis and pursue low-cost and no-cost solutions through grant writing and community partnerships, while keeping county council apprised of any budgetary impacts as soon as possible.

Net expenses for the library in 2016 were about $960,000, with about $780,000 of that coming from the county itself.

About $150,000 came from provincial subsidies, the remainder from other sources.

Haliburton County councillors are requesting a delegation at this year's Association of Municipalities of Ontario conference regarding a provincial library funding freeze that has been in effect for a number of years.

Initiative aims to reduce wildlife/car collisions in county

by CHAD INGRAM
Times Staff

The Ministry of Natural Resources and Forestry is teaming up with the OPP and the Ministry of Transportation in an attempt to reduce the number of collisions involving cars and deer in Haliburton County.

David May of the MNR gave county councillors an update on the partnership during their May 25 meeting.

"It's still a relatively new partnership we're working on," May said, explaining that conversations began in 2014 after the ministry received a complaint from a resident who got into a collision with a deer in an area where the animals were being fed.

Despite ministry warnings that feeding deer is dangerous both for the animals and for humans, feeding continues to be a common practice for some county residents. Haliburton County has the second-highest rate of animal-vehicle collision in the province next only to Manitoulin, May said, the number of reported collisions sometimes exceeding 200 a year. So far in 2016, 61 have been reported.

"Many of them go unreported, so we know there's a higher number of them happening," May said, adding the vast majority of these collisions likely involve deer.

A map showed most of the reported collisions taking place along the county's major arteries, including Highways 35 and 118, and County Road 21.

May said the targeted reduction of brush near "hot spots" where deer are known to cross roadways is one way municipalities could help to reduce the number of collisions.

"So that folks driving along have more of an opportunity to see animals coming out of the bush," he said.

May said the ministry would like to work with the county government on the roads it is responsible for and that creating bylaws regulating deer-feeding was another way municipalities could contribute.

He said if residents wanted to help deer, rather than feeding them, packing down trails they use during the wintertime would be more helpful.

"People need to think about what their actions are and how those actions may be spinning out into the community," said Algonquin Highlands Reeve and County Warden Carol Moffatt, who noted an Algonquin Highlands fire truck was once in a collision with a deer in an area where the animals were being fed.

Moffatt said the county could work with the ministry on brush-clearing and that councillors could broach the issue at lake association meetings during the summer. The ministry is also working on a public awareness campaign and exploring a partnership with the Insurance Brokers Association of Ontario.

Council approves renewable energy policy in principle

by CHAD INGRAM
Times Staff

The following are brief reports of items discussed during a May 26 meeting of Minden Hills council.

After some discussion, councillors approved in principle a renewable energy policy that was tabled by members of the township's renewable energy task force at a committee-of-the-whole meeting earlier this month.

Council passed a resolution to create the task force last fall, after it received a deluge of requests for support for applications to the province's feed-in-tariff (FIT) program in 2015.

An initial motion on the issue read, "that the reeve attend a renewable energy task force meeting to assist with amendments to the draft renewable energy policy to be presented back to council for further consideration."

Councillor Pam Sayne took issue with this, saying the task force meetings were open to the public and that the reeve or any other member of council could attend if they wanted.

Sayne said the township needed to have more respect for the work of volunteers and committees and wanted the policy supported in some affirmative way.

She also noted the township had nothing on the books expressing support for renewable energy.

The initial motion was defeated, with council passing a motion that, "council supports in principle the draft renewable energy policy," and "further, that the reeve attend a renewable energy task force meeting to assist with the draft renewable energy policy to be presented back to council for further consideration."

Township to buy banners

After the Minden Festival of Banners committee announced it will no longer be organizing the painting and hanging of banners in the village, councillors decided at their committee-of-the-whole meeting to put out a call to residents to lend or donate banners from previous years.

Community services director Mark Coleman told council the township had received about 10 banners. There are 72 banner brackets throughout the village. Coleman suggested the purchase of 30 generic banners at cost of $75 a piece to at least cover the village's downtown strip for the season, which council supported.

Overnight camping

Council passed a bylaw that will permit overnight camping on township property in certain situations. These include situations where council has passed a resolution for the use; situations where council or the director of community services has approved the camping as an accessory use associated with an event; or on properties that are part of the Haliburton Highlands Water Trails System where a permit has been obtained.

And the winner is ...

Peter Olyer, chairman of the HHHS Foundation board, pulls the final ticket in the final draw of Cash for Care on Friday, May 27. The fundraiser brought in about $20,000 for the palliative expansion at the Haliburton hospital. The winners of the final three draws are J.D. Smith of Aurora ($1,000), Sue Tierney of Haliburton ($2,000), and Heinz Rieger of Toronto ($20,000). /JENN WATT Staff

School board contacts mediator after labour board ruling

by CHAD INGRAM
Times Staff

The chairwoman of the Trillium Lakelands District School Board says the board intends to get back to the bargaining table with Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation District 15 with the assistance of a provincial mediator following a ruling from the Ontario Labour Relations Board.

The board and the teachers' union local have been without a collective agreement for nearly two years.

Talks between the two groups broke off in February, with OSSTF District 15 declining the board's request to go to arbitration.

Demands from District 15 include easier access to taking personal days and the way teacher evaluations are conducted.

Issues include fairness and equity, specifically with teacher performance appraisals and the language in the collective agreement as it relates to occasional teachers, OSSTF district president Colin Matthew told the paper in an earlier interview.

Teachers have been instructed not to participate in school activities such as graduation ceremonies or provide comments on report cards.

In April, the school board filed an application with the labour relations board, "to seek a decision on whether or not the OSSTF District 15 demands are a legal negotiation position."

"In conclusion, none of the impugned proposals are necessarily inconsistent with the Education Act," reads a May 20 decision from the labour relations board, dismissing the school board's application.

"Unlike the Trillium Lakelands District School Board, we have been committed to the collective bargaining process throughout these negotiations," Matthew said in a release on the ruling. "Our members will certainly feel vindicated by this decision, but what they are really looking for is a fair, negotiated deal. It's now time for the board to finally sit down with us and engage in serious negotiations."

"We are disappointed in the decision," board chairwoman Louise Clodd said. "We reached out to the provincial mediator. We're hopeful the mediator will be available to work with both parties soon."

Clodd added that just because the board's application was dismissed, it does not validate the district's proposals.

District 15 is one of the few OSSTF locals in the province that's been unable to reach an agreement with its school board. Secondary teachers protested outside the board satellite office at Minden's Archie Stouffer Elementary School earlier this month.

Staffing emergency dept. difficult

by JENN WATT
Editor

The following are brief reports of items discussed at the Haliburton Highlands Health Services board meeting on Thursday, May 26 in Haliburton.

Dr. Greg Karaguesian, chief of staff, told the board that the emergency department is 95 per cent covered for summer, but he foresees issues in the fall.

Largely, the shortfall has to do with changing ideas about what local doctors should be doing.

“A lot of physicians that work in the office don’t work in emerg,” said Karaguesian.

“I don’t think it’s unique to Haliburton. Young doctors do not want to do emergency work.”

He said that 15 or 20 years ago, working both as a family doctor in a small town and doing shifts in the emergency department was expected, but that is no longer the case.

Currently locums are used to fill in the gaps when local doctors aren’t available.

Interim CEO Carolyn Plummer said the doctor recruitment committee was aware of the issue and had discussed changing tactics.

HR commitment

Changes to the terms of reference for the quality committee were accepted by the board, which further reinforce the board’s role in human resources.

Quality committee chairman Jeff Gollob presented the amendments to the board, which included receiving quarterly HR reports, reviewing specific HR indicators and oversight of management initiatives for maintaining a healthy work environment.

“We had a discussion at the committee level ... on the question of the corporation’s human resources function and how the oversight of human resources should be managed at the board level,” said Gollob.

He explained that the quality committee currently receives an HR report annually, but that reviews should be done throughout the year.

“The discussion on HR oversight resulted in a recommendation that the terms of reference for the quality committee should be amended to emphasize the importance of the board’s role in oversight of HR matters,” he said.

Finding transportation

Community Advisory Committee chairman David Coulson told the board that his committee had been discussing the challenges that lack of transportation posed to county residents.

Even though Community Support Services offers transportation “there are limits and guidelines,” he said, which mean not everyone can get to where they’re going efficiently.

He noted that recent initiatives to connect people to transportation were good steps, but that not everyone has the Internet or a computer to check these websites.

Those looking for a ride to a medical appointment or for other reasons can go online to www.transportation-haliburtoncounty.ca. Those without access to a computer can call 705-455- 2665 or toll-free 1-844-771-RIDE (7433).

Palliative unit delays

Interim CEO Carolyn Plummer said that HHHS is still waiting to hear from the Ministry of Health on the palliative wing.

“From what I understand all of the components of our most recent submission have been reviewed,” she said. No questions or requests for more information have come in.

HHHS has now been waiting longer than expected for approvals and Plummer said a local politician has been asked to help move things forward with the ministry.

There has also not yet been word on whether Haliburton will be receiving rural health hub funding.

Celebrations planned

The HHHS annual general meeting is planned for June 23, which also happens to be the day the Haliburton hospital opened 80 years ago. Plummer told the board that there is a special celebration being prepared for this and several other milestones for HHHS. Those festivities will be coupled with the AGM. Details to come.

Volunteers produce help directory

by CHAD INGRAM
Times Staff

A group of Minden Hills volunteers has produced what they’re calling the Haliburton Highlands Help Directory, a listing of social services and government agency contacts that will be produced with a little help from their friends and distributed in the community.

Volunteers Marilynne Lesperance and Joan Featherstone made a presentation to Minden Hills councillors during their May 26 meeting.

“This book represents a year and a half of work by a group of citizens,” Lesperance said. “We felt there was a need for a service directory.”

The 27-page booklet includes information and contacts for everything from mental health support to employment, legal and housing services to library branches.

Lesperance, who is the chairwoman of the Minden Food Bank, said the idea is that organizations will have quick access to contact numbers.

“We had to call mental health . . . we had to call the police, twice, in one day . . . and we’re a food bank,” she told councillors.

The guide will also mean that organizations have the contact information ready to provide for inquiring members of the public.

“Now we’ve reached the point where we want to get it printed,” Lesperance said.

Based on the lowest quote the group had received, Lesperance said 150 copies of the directory could be produced for $592 – or $3.95 per copy. Lesperance was looking for the township to fund the printing of the booklets and councillors were on board.

“I think it’s an excellent thing,” said Councillor Pam Sayne. “I’m in support of it totally.”

“I haven’t seen anything like that in more than 20 years, so it’s long overdue,” said Councillor Jeanne Anthon, former reeve of the former Anson, Hindon and Minden township.

Reeve Brent Devolin was also supportive, noting that since per-copy costs decrease with increased production, he wanted to see quotes for 500, even 1,000 copies.

“We probably would like to expand on the scope of this,” Devolin said.

In an unexpected twist, auditor Oscar Poloni of KPMG, who was sitting in council chambers awaiting his own presentation, told councillors that mental health was a cause near and dear to his heart and volunteered to have KPMG pay for the cost of producing the booklets.

Funding to our health care system will increase by over $1 billion this year.

ontario.ca/bettercare

Investing in new and better ways for all Ontarians to get the care they need means:

- 700 new doctors and specialists
- 35 hospitals currently being renewed, modernized or expanded
- $250 million invested in home and community care
- $345 million invested to improve wait times and access to care

These investments ensure a strong health care system for both today and tomorrow.

Drink a glass of water – thank a wetland

If you used water today to brush your teeth, cook, or quench your thirst, you should probably thank a wetland! If you're wondering why you should care, consider what wetlands do for us.

From providing ecological services such as flood control and carbon storage to food production, wetlands play a vital role in our day-to-day lives.

Wetlands are good for your health. They play a key role in removing sediments, excess nutrients and even bacteria from drinking water. Over two-thirds of Canadians get their drinking water from lakes, rivers and reservoirs, and the quality of that water depends on the health of the watershed, including wetlands. Like giant sponges, wetlands also absorb and replenish water to buffer our communities from flood and drought risks.

Wetlands are vital nesting and feeding grounds for waterfowl, they provide nursery habitat for fishes and are one of Canada's most diverse ecosystems. At least half of our wildlife species rely on wetlands for at least part of their lifecycle.

Canada is home to 25 per cent of the world's wetlands; more than any other country. However, our wetlands are disappearing due to infrastructure development such as roads and cities or drainage for agricultural production. This loss of wetlands is especially high in southern Canada.

CHA Note - The Haliburton Highlands has more than 20,000 wetlands but has lost thousands more. Every wetland we have left is important – let's protect them.

Wetlands are among the Nature Conservancy of Canada's most important habitats we are working to conserve. We also restore wetlands that have been degraded, to improve these natural spaces for migratory

Wetlands filter the water we drink as well as provide a home to many of the species we love. /File photo birds, amphibians, fishes and other wildlife.

In addition to their importance for nature, many of the Nature Conservancy of Canada's wetland areas provide recreational opportunities such as walking, hiking, fishing, wildlife viewing and canoeing, along with educational opportunities for people of all ages to learn and explore.

Canada is well positioned to make a difference on a global scale by protecting our wetlands so that they can continue to trap and store large amounts of carbon. Our wetlands are also important to help nature and local communities adapt to the impacts of climate change by protecting us from storm surges, drought and flooding.

Haliburton Highlands Camera Club competition winners

by GLENN SPRINGER

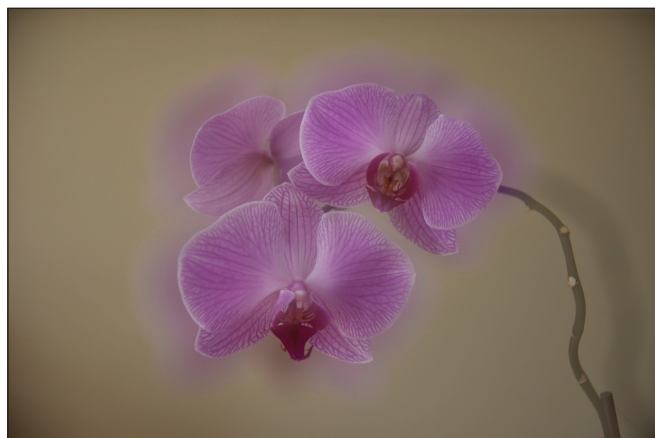

Haliburton Highlands Camera Club

Here are the top winning images from each category in the Haliburton Highlands Camera Club's latest competition.

This competition topic was exceedingly difficult since no post-processing whatsoever was allowed (other than resizing for submission). No cropping, no exposure adjustment, nothing. Our participants had to think before shooting, much like the old days when we all shot with Kodachrome slide film! All of our competitions are adjudicated by GTCCC/CAPA trained judges from all over the province.

It turns out that the overall winning image came from a Novice shooter! Sharon beat all the experienced folks!

The Haliburton Highlands Camera Club meets the third Wednesday of every month, alternating between Minden and Haliburton. Next meeting is Wednesday, June 15, at 7 p.m., Haliburton Highlands Museum, 66 Museum Rd, Haliburton. There is no charge for attendance and everyone is welcome. See the website at highlandscameraclub.ca for details.

Above, First Novice and overall winner: "Blue Giant" by Sharon Brickman of Crystal Lake with a score of 26 out of a possible 30 points.

Left above, First Advanced: "Pine Warbler female" by Bill Bunn of Miskwabi with a score of 25.5 out of a possible 30 points

Left, First Intermediate: "Orton Orchids" by Gord Sheehan of Horseshoe Lake with a score of 23.5 out of a possible 30 points

Healthy financial checkup for Minden Hills

by CHAD INGRAM
Times Staff

The financial statements for Minden Hills township are in fine order, according to auditing firm KPMG.

Auditor Oscar Poloni gave a presentation on his audit of the township's 2015 financial statements during a May 26 council meeting.

Minden Hills received a clean audit, free of irregularities or internal weaknesses, on its 2015 financial statements, representing a nearly $10 million budget.

A comparative analysis performed by KPMG also shows that Minden Hills is in a competitive position amongst other lower-tier municipalities of comparable size.

Minden Hills, for example, collects average residential taxes of $949 per household a year, compared to $735 for Dysart et al, $839 for Algonquin Highlands and $978 for Highlands East.

For the municipalities of North Kawartha and Trent Lakes, the figure is $1,092 and $1,096, respectively.

Minden Hills carries a debt per household rate of $15, versus zero dollars for Highlands East, $70 for Algonquin Highlands and $412 for Dysart et al.

Reserves per household would equate to $1,211 for Minden Hills, $910 for Algonquin Highlands, $615 for Highlands East and $508 for Dysart et al.

Love it or List it casting in the Highlands

by JENN WATT
Editor

Vacation homes hold a special place in the heart, but as life changes, so too do the demands on the property. An older building might not be big enough for a growing family or a large cottage could seem cavernous for empty nesters. Yet the memories associated with the countryside abode or lakefront retreat hold strong, urging the owner to hold on to the property even if it no longer works.

This push and pull is what Love It or List It is capturing with its new Vacation Homes series, which premiered on W Network earlier this month. They are currently casting for the second season and are looking for property owners in the Haliburton Highlands.

"Families change, families grow," explains executive producer of Big Coat Productions Catherine Fogarty. Along with her business partner Maria Armstrong, she has created the popular Love It or List It franchise, which is now branching into vacation homes for the first time.

"Sometimes it's a couple where the kids have left the nest," she says. That couple might be considering a condo instead.

Sometimes it's a couple where the kids have left the nest.

— PRODUCER CATHERINE FOGARTY

The show includes two hosts: realtor Elisa Goldhawke, who tries to find the perfect new vacation home for the property owners; and designer Dan Vickery, who remodels the home in the hopes of getting them to stay.

Fogarty explains that the idea for the show originally came up when Armstrong was going through a similar situation with her own property. Her Riverdale home was in need of renovations and she didn't know whether she wanted to keep the property that she loved, but needed work, or to move.

"It's extremely relatable," says Fogarty, who has the same debate with herself about her vacation property in Prince Edward County. "Everybody at some point in their life is going to be in that situation."

The producers are looking for vacation home owners in the Highlands – it can be countryside or lakefront – who relate to that dilemma to consider applying to be on the program.

"We really want to meet people who are in that debate and trying to come to a decision about whether they love it or they list it," she says.

There are few criteria for being on the program, only that homeowners need to be ready for a change since the end result of the process is either to stay in a renovated cottage or to move to a new one.

The current season has the hosts working on properties in Whistler, Collingwood, Muskoka, Prince Edward County, and Hornby Island, B.C. This season they want to switch things up and find cottages in new locations.

To find out more about the programs and the chance to be on the show, email casting@bigcoattv.com. To find out more about the shows, go to bigcoattv.com.

Thanks for celebrating Bruce's 80th birthday

AROUND THE TOWN

Patti Fleury
705-488-2938
brucefleury1@hotmail.com

Here at the old farmhouse, May 31st, is Bruce's actual 80th birthday, however the celebration was held last Saturday at the Galway Hall. While his professional achievements and awards as an educator, administrator, community activist and volunteer are most impressive we decided that the party theme would be in the framework of Connemara Camp which we operated here for 15 summers. Some 63 honorary "campers" joined Bruce and leader son David around the indoor campfire (painted in acylics on a table top display board) to share toasts, songs, fun challenges and view a video filled with a lifelong set of memories. Our older daughter spent many hours making this tribute for her Dad and we laughed at the credit line "Megan and Advil." Daughter Caitlin, a superb baker, had all the ingredients out ready to make his birthday cake when the power went out in her Whitby area home. A Cosco vanilla slab was substituted which she then decorated in keeping with the theme. The three grandchildren spoke together and finished with Emma singing "Edelweiss" which left a few tears around the circle. warmth. All in all it was a great party and I am so thankful that everyone joined in with enthusiasm to make it happen. A special shoutout to my Minden readers Scotty and Jane who shared in the festivities with their warmth.

Looking ahead to the Labour Day weekend the Kinmount Agricultural Society invites all of the volunteers who contribute annually to the success of the famous Kinmount Fair to a volunteer appreciation day this Sunday, June 5 from 1 to 4 p.m. at the arena on the Fairgrounds. Also on that same day there will be a special open house held by the Kinmount Pioneer/Heritage Society at the Heritage Complex on the fairgrounds at 2 p.m. Hosted by Guy Scott there will be a tour of the complex, a look at the display materials and an overview of the plans for this year's presentation. The society has made this interactive display an integral part of the fair for the past 37 years. At this point in time it is critical that new volunteers come on board. Visitors are always genuinely interested in learning more about the local history which makes the effort put forward worthwhile. It is fun and a great opportunity for newcomers to our community to meet their neighbours and make new friends.

The Kinmount & District Lions Club will host a 5 km. Purina Walk For Dog Guides on Sunday, June 12 starting at 10 a.m. This event is open to all walkers including their dogs and participants should meet at the Kinmount Railway Station. Dog guides are

PUBLIC NOTICE

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Council of the Corporation of the Township of Minden Hills proposes to consider by-laws to stop up, close, and convey those parcels of land more particularly described as follows:

- 1. File No. SRA-14-12: Part of the original shore road allowance along the shore of Bob Lake, lying in front of Lot 10, Concession 1, Geographic Township of Anson, designated as Part 2, on a Plan of Survey 19R-9438, registered October 11, 2012.

The above noted plans of surveys are available for inspection in the Building and Planning Department located at 7 Milne Street, Minden, Ontario during regular office hours.

AND FURTHER TAKE NOTICE that the proposed By-Laws will come before the said Council for consideration at its regular meeting to be held in the Municipal Council Chambers at 7 Milne Street, Minden, Ontario, on Thursday, June 9, 2016 at the hour of 9:00 a.m. At that time, Council will hear in person or by their counsel, solicitor, or agent, any person who claims that their land will be prejudicially affected and who applies to be heard. If deemed advisable, the proposed By-laws will be passed at its regular meeting to be held on Thursday, June 30, 2016.

DATED AT THE Township of Minden Hills, this 2nd day of June, 2016

THE TOWNSHIP OF MINDEN HILLS

IN SEASON, EVERY SEASON

NOTICE OF SEWER FLUSHING

Please note that regularly scheduled sewer maintenance will be taking place throughout the Township of Minden Hills Wastewater Collection System and Storm Water Systems during the month of June and the first week of July to remove settled and accumulated material. During this process, pressurized water will be released at each manhole on the roadway through the sanitary sewer/storm water lines to remove any buildup.

A bubbling and/or vacuum effect may be noticed in your drains and/or toilets due to the sanitary flushing. It is recommended to keep toilet seats closed and cover any floor drains. Internal plumbing consists of "P" traps which hold a volume of water to prevent sewer gases from migrating into the home. During the flushing process, this water could be drawn out of the traps by negative pressure created in the sanitary sewer line. For this reason it is important to refill all plumbing traps by running the water in your sinks and floor drains after work is completed.

We ask for your patience and understanding during this process as it is necessary to eliminate the potential for sanitary sewer main surcharging or storm water backups which could result in damage to property.

Please contact Ivan Ingram, Environmental & Property Operations Manager at ingram@mindenhills.ca or 705-286-1260 ext. 216 for more information.

Lions club will walk for guide dogs supplied to qualified applicants at no cost. All funds raised from the walk go directly to the six Dog Guide training programs across Canada. To date more than 2,000 dogs have been partnered with persons from ages eight to 88 all without the need of government funding. Sponsor sheets are available around Town or a donation can be made at puri-nawalkfordogguides.com. For more information please go to kinmountlions@gmail.com.

Tomorrow the month of June begins. Can July be far behind? Mark your summer calendars now for the second Kinmount Highland Games coming up on Saturday, July 9. from 8:30 a.m. through to 4 p.m. the sounds of bagpipes and drums will echo from the fairgrounds with Highland dance competitions, heavy events, children's activities, agricultural demonstrations, artisans, vendors and much more. For specific details please go to kinmounthighlandgames.com.

Call ahead now to book your free space for vendors, yard sales, & community groups at the Kinmount Family Funfest coming up on Saturday, Aug. 6. This event runs from 4 to 9 p.m. with booths and activities all along the Main Street, in the Station area as well as up at the Artisans Marketplace. For more details and/or to book your space please call Lynne at 705-488-2919. Speaking of the Marketplace be sure to check out its facelift sporting new paint, a new handrail and a special novelty planter beside the bicycle built for two.

Again the notices listed above are reflections of the volunteer spirit alive in our communities. Friend Gail's dad, a lifelong devoted community volunteer, on leaving the Toronto retirement home after visiting his wife. fell outside. No one walking or driving by stopped to ask if he needed help. This lack of empathy he said hurt more than any bumps or bruises he sustained. How little time it takes to offer that helping hand. It only takes a moment to reach out and "pay it forward".

This spring the odour of the old lilacs has been intoxicating. Until next week keep busy and well. They go together.
